Certificate in FRS 102

CPA Ireland Skillnet

Now is the time to get to grips with the reporting and business challenges which lie ahead!

There is an urgent need for accountants who use UK and Irish GAAP to get to grips with the new financial reporting standard FRS 102 which replaces UK and Irish GAAP for accounting periods commencing on or after 1 January 2015 (with major transitional arrangements from 1 January 2014).

CPA Ireland Skillnet presents the certificate in FRS 102 which has been developed to equip accounting professionals with a full understanding of and a capacity to apply the new standards.

It is estimated that over 95% of entities in Ireland will need to replace their current reporting standards with FRS 102.

The certificate will take place over two full day lectures in Dublin and Cork (both run on Saturdays) and three lunchtime webinars ensuring the least amount of disruption to your working hours. There is a live streaming option for participants who cannot attend in person and wish to complete the certificate through distance learning. To successfully complete the certificate participants will need to attend all five modules and successfully pass an assignment.

The certificate will give participants the ability to:

- Demonstrate a comprehensive level of knowledge and understanding of FRS 102.
- Practically apply FRS 102 to financial statements.
- Convert current GAAP accounts to FRS 102.
- Identify options on transition.
- Apply the concepts and pervasive principles of FRS 102 to accounting transaction problems.
