Who is speaking at the conference?

Karen Warren, KW Inner Strength

Karen has over 30 years of business, line management, stress management, workplace coaching and organisational development experience, having worked in private and public sector organisations to include Barclays Bank, Cheshire Fire and Rescue Service and the NHS. Karen's passion is to support people to manage their stress and anxiety, build resilience, communicate assertively and manage relationships effectively.

Karen works with individuals and organisations to identify and embed wellbeing, personal and professional development solutions into their daily practices through the delivery of coaching, training and consultancy solutions.

Karen's book Workforce Wellbeing – how to build organisational strength and resilience and online training programme Managing Difficult Conversations to Achieve Successful Outcomes have been developed from her passion for people to be supported and valued in the workplace. If people feel looked after in their organisation, they'll work well and support the development of the wider business. Karen's ambition for 2021 and beyond is that in time, every employee will feel like that.

Leela Bassi, Above & Beyond Resilience

Leela Bassi is an international keynote speaker, and founder of Above & Beyond Resilience.

Through her worldwide experience, Leela has delivered numerous keynote speeches & strategies that have enabled her to establish a mental strength which can turn setbacks and failures into success stories.

Leela provides insight through keynotes and follow-on workshops which explore the challenge of overcoming self-restricting beliefs.

Known for her resilience and focus, Leela describes how to combat fear of failure and why hunger is always your most valuable asset regardless of your organisation or industry.

She strongly believes that if you dig deep, you can find resilience within yourself. Grit and growth mindset will enable you to learn to be comfortable in an uncomfortable state. Self-belief will give you the ability to see yourself through and achieve any goals.

Rachel Bowden, Thinking Audit Ltd

Rachel is the founder of ThinkingAudit. She works with auditors, audit committees and boards to help them get the most from their assurance arrangements and to help them understand risk and opportunities to make informed decisions.

Starting her career as a civil engineer, Rachel moved into internal audit initially in the public sector before working for large corporate businesses. Latterly Rachel was a risk assurance partner at RSM before setting up her own business in 2017.

Rachel is a non-executive director and audit committee chair. She has a particular interest in how people perceive and use risk to inform their decision making. Rachel likes to adopt new technologies, but admits that when it comes to problem solving, her brain works best with a pen in her hand.
